

GENERAL INDEX.

VOL. XI. NEW SERIES.

- Accommodations, scriptural, Horne's remarks on*, 184, 5.
- Aikin's England delineated*, 179, et seq.; improvements in the present edition, ib.; situation, trade, &c. of Manchester, 180; Liverpool, its situation, commerce, &c. 181.
- Aikin's, Miss Lucy, memoirs of the court of Elizabeth*, 105, et seq.; on the just mode of forming a correct estimate of an historical period, 106; character of Elizabeth hitherto not justly exhibited, 107; remarks on her early life, 107, 8; Roger Ascham's account of Elizabeth's proficiency in learning, 108, 9; simplicity of her dress, and appearance, 110; Mary's enmity to her, 111; she is committed to the tower, 112; her treatment there, 113; death of the Queen, 114; their conduct contrasted, ib.; accession of Elizabeth, 115; her procession through the city, 115, et seq.; establishment of the band of gentlemen pensioners, 118; Cecil's curious proclamation in regard to portraits of the Queen, 119; her conduct as head of the church considered, 120; her doubtful policy, 122; decline of her health and spirits, 124, 5; Robert Cary's account of her last moments, 125, 6.
- Alberico, an Italian visionary, account of him*, 563, et seq.
- Algebra, early history of*, 286.
- Ameen, the Armenian prince, historical account of him*, 575; his letter to the Earl of Northumberland, 579, 80.
- America, Fearon's sketches on*, 153, et seq.
- Anecdotes of his own times, by Dr. King*, 89, et seq.
- Ankarstrom, the Swedish regicide*, 516.
- Anne, Queen*, 200 persons touched by her for the evil, 281.
- Antediluvians, on the longevity of*, 351, 2.
- Antoinette, Marie, character of, by Mad. Staët*, 341.
- Archipelago, Malayan, inquiry concerning the Aborigines of*, 285.
- Ascham's, Roger, account of the great proficiency of Queen Elizabeth, in her youth*, 108, 9.
- Asiatic Researches, Vol. XII*, 282, et seq.; Major Lambton's trigonometrical survey across the peninsula of India, 282, 3; description of the country west of Bangalore, 283, 4; on the Malay nation, 284; inquiry concerning the Aborigines of the Malayan Archipelago, 285; the early history of algebra, 286; comparison between the Bija Ganita, and the work of Diophantus, 286, 7; Dr. Carey on the funeral ceremonies of a Burman Priest, 287, 8; observations taken near Fort St. George, for determining the obliquity of the ecliptic, 288; notions of the Hindu astronomers concerning the precession of the equinoxes, &c. ib.; Indian theory of astronomy, 289; on the height of the Himalayah mountains, 289; translation of a Sanscrit inscription on a stone found in Bundelchund, 290; journey to Lake Manasarovara in Uades, a province of Little Thibet, 291.
- Astronomy, Indian theory of*, 289.
- Bangalore, description of the country west of it*, 283, 4.
- Basle, wretchedness of its mendicants*, 176.
- Bass, his daring adventure*, 363.
- Baudin, Capt. his base treatment of Capt. Flinders*, 367, et seq.
- Beaufort's Karamania*, 546, et seq.; ruins of Myra, 547; counter currents in the Archipelago, ib.; Yanar, or volcanic flame, 548; Takhtalu and Mount Taurus, elevation of, ib.; ruins of the ancient Phaselis, 549; rescue of sixty Turks from destruc-

INDEX.

- tion, 549; anecdote of the Turkish governor of Boodroom, 551; capture of some Mainot pirates, 552, 3; ruins of Pompeipolis, 554; Ayas Bay, ib.; Gulf of Iskenderoon, its abundant supply of fish and turtles, ib.; party attacked and the captain wounded by some armed Turks, 555.
- Bell, Peter, a lyrical ballad, 473, et seq.
- Belsham, on a millennial period, 129.
- Burnet, Bishop of Salisbury, his disinterested conduct, 96.
- Bernard's, Made. Jeune Vendéens, 393.
- Bigland's Letters on French history, 481.
- Bigotry, its nature, 395.
- Bishop of Chester censured for calling upon his congregation to pray for the soul of the deceased Princess Charlotte, 444.
- Blacks not permitted to worship with the whites in some of the United States, 155; the whites refuse to eat with them, 156.
- Blind persons, singular community of, in Japan, 249.
- Blunt's guide to New York, 274; Broadway-street, ib.; this city noted for its dirty streets, ib.
- Bogue's discourses on the millennium, 127, et seq.; queries in relation to the millennium, ib.; early prevalence of the opinion of a millennial age, 128; Belsham on a millennial period, 129; other opinions on the subject, ib. et seq.; character of the present work, 131; subjects of discussion, 133; remarks on the spiritual part of the millennium, 136, 7; means by which it is to be hastened, 138, 9; on the author's address to the kings of the earth, 140; judgements of God introductory to the millennial state considered, 141, 2; the promised effusion of the Holy Spirit, 143, 4; means by which the ruin of Antichrist's kingdom will probably be effected, 144; deism not one of the formidable enemies of Christianity, 145, 6; return of the Jews to their own land considered, 146; remarks on some illiberal strictures on the author's works, which lately appeared in a religious Journal, 148, 9.
- Bombay literary society, transactions of, 423, et seq.; introductory discourse by Sir James Mackintosh, ib.; real state of the female population in warm climates, 424; eulogy on Sir William Jones, 425; account of the festival of Mamangom, on the Malabar coast, ib.; temperature of the island of Bombay, 426; translations of two Chinese edicts, ib.; the morals of Nasir, a Persian system of ethics, 427; account of the caves at Salsette, 428; similitude between the Gipsy and Hindostanee languages, 429; translations of the opinions of the Sunni and Shia sects of Mahomedans, 429; treatise on sufism, or Mahomedan mysticism, 430; present and ancient state of Babylon compared, 432; hill fort of Chapaneer, in Guzerat, 433; fifth sermon of Sadi, ib.; history of the Bunjaras, 434; account of the Parishnath Gowricha, worshipped in the desert of Parkur, ib.; observations on two sepulchral urns found in Bushire in Persia, 437; cave temple of Elephanta, ib.; on the substance called Gez, or manna, found in Persia, ib.; manners and customs of the inhabitants of Kattiwar, ib.; Cornelian mines of Baroath, 439; famine in Guzerat, ib.; plan of a comparative vocabulary of Indian language, ib.
- Bonaparte, his character by Made. Staël, 491, et seq.; leading features of his system exposed, 493.
- Books, doctrinal, of scripture, mode of discovering their true meaning, 186, 7.
- Bramhal, Bishop, his character, 446.
- Brett, Dr. character of his writings, 448.
- Briggs's history of the Bunjaras, 434, 5.
- Bullar's memoirs of the late Rev. W. Kingsbury, 537, et seq.; early life of Mr. K. 538; exercise of his mind, in regard to religion, 539, et seq.; his reflections on quitting his pastoral charge, at Southampton, 542, 3; character of the late Mr. Newton, 544, 5.
- Bunyan's pilgrim's progress, and holy war, remarks on their character, 484.
- Burman priest, Felix Carey on the funeral ceremonies of one, 287, 8.
- Butler, bishop of Durham, striking anecdote of, 89, 90.
- Cabins, Irish, their wretchedness, 44; curious description of, 45, et seq.
- Caen, Gen. de, his base imprisonment of Capt. Flinders, in the Mauritius, 374.
- Calonne, M. de, character of, by Made. de Staël, 330 1.
- Calvinism, confutation of, 56, et seq.
- Caravan, Arab, destruction of, in an attempt to cross the African desert, 82.
- Carey, Dr. on the eastern modes of disposing of the dead, 287.

INDEX.

- Carey, Felix, on the funeral ceremonies of a Burman priest, 287, 8.
- Carey's translation of the vision of Dante, 556, et seq.
- Carey's, Robert, account of the last moments of Queen Elizabeth, 125, 6.
- Catholics, Irish, state of, 54.
- Celibacy, constrained, of the Romish clergy, letters on, 265, et seq.; scriptural evidence in favour of matrimony, 266; canon of the council of Trent against marriage, 267; author's remarks on these different statements, ib.; objection to his opinion of the eligibility of celibacy, in the case of clergymen, 269; opulence of the church one chief cause of the prohibition of marriage, 271; forcible appeal on the alleged pollution of married priests, 271; clerical competency of wicked priests exposed, 273.
- Chester's, Bishop of, sermon on the scriptural doctrine of man's salvation, 36, et seq.; his lordship's object, ib.; his statement of an apparent contradiction in the Bible, concerning this doctrine, ib.; his lordship's two periods of salvation considered, 37; extracts from his lordship's sermon, 37, 8; note; perplexing nature of his system, 38, et seq.; his lordship's exhibition of the nature and extent of the comfort offered by the gospel, 40; remarks on the opinion of Dr. Johnson, 41; note, ib. the Christian's comfort keeps place with the steadiness of his hope, &c. 42.
- Cheyne, Dr. letter of, to Richardson, author of Pamela, on abstemious regimen, 576, 7.
- Childhood, poetic picture of, 222, 3.
- Christians, Malabar, of the fifteenth century, account of, 257.
- Church of England does not deny the authority of the Pope, 513; see Wix on a general council.
- Clair, General St. his ill treatment by the American government, 164, 5.
- Clarke's, Dr. travels in Scandinavia, 509, et seq.; present and former dimensions of the island of Heligoland, 511; effect produced by the croaking of millions of frogs, 512; derangement of the king, ib.; character of the Danes, 513; immense forests of Sweden, ib.; probable origin of the belief of fauns and satyrs among the ancients, ib.; rapacity of the lords proprietors of the lands, ib.; herring fishery of Gottenburg, 514; cataracts of Trollhætta, ib.; freak of the late king, 514; lake Wener, ib.; burial place of the giants, 514, 5; elegant structure of the cottages near the Wener, 515; striking evidence of Swedish honesty, 516; grand square of Stockholm, ib.; freak of the late beautiful queen, 517; Ankarstrom, the regicide, ib.; contrast between the Swedish and the Italian conductor, 518; inconvenience of a long protracted day light, 519; merchants' annual expedition to the north for skins, 520; musquitos, 522; cleanliness of the settled Lapps, 523; their national music, 524; manners of the nomade Lapps, ib.; noise a chief requisite in a preacher to the Lapps, 526; description of a midnight sun, 527; Lake Kilpis, 528; characteristic portrait of the Laplander, ib.
- Clergy, Irish, state of, 55.
- Clergy, Romish, letters on their constrained celibacy, 265, et seq.
- Coalition and France, 177, et seq.; design of the work, 178; extract, ib.
- Cobbett's opinion of the Anglo-Americans, 160.
- Colebrooke on the height of the Himalayah mountains, 289, et seq.
- on the notions of the Hindu Astronomers concerning the precession of the equinoxes, &c. 288.
- Collier, character of his writings, 444.
- Cokuboun's treatise on the covenant of grace 483, 4; specimen of the writer's mode of treating his subject, ib.
- Commentaries and annotations on the Holy Scriptures, by Dr. Hewlett, 345, et seq.
- Commentators, caution in regard to the use of, 187.
- Constitution, English, futility of M. Neckar's attempt to adopt it in France, 321.
- Correspondence between a mother and her daughter at school, by Mrs. and Miss Taylor, 394.
- Cosin, Bishop, sequestered from his benefice's, for practising popish superstitions, &c. 445.
- Cottages near the Wener, elegant structure of, 515.
- Council of the Church of England and the Church of Rome, Wix on the expediency of holding one, to accommodate their religious differences, 301, et seq. 441, et seq.
- Critique, theatrical, 473, extracts, 477, 8.
- Curialia Miscellanea, 275, et seq.
- Curiosities, epistolary, by Rebecca Warner, 573, et seq.
- Currents counter, in the Archipelago, great force of, 547.
- Curwen's state of Ireland, 43, et seq.

INDEX.

- design of the work, 43, 4; wretched state of the Irish cabins, 44; sufferings of the poor, 45; author's visits to various cabins, 45, et seq.; his opinion of the causes of the misery of the common Irish, 47, et seq.; smallness of the farms, ib.; tithes, 48; conduct of the tithe proctors, ib.; evils from illicit distillation, 50; from the absence of the land proprietors, ib.; proposed remedies, 51; Mr. Wynne's farm at Hazlewood, 51, 2; humane conduct of the Bishop of Meath, 53; stooking of wheat, 52, 3; Irish inns, ib.; great importance of Ireland to Great Britain, 54; state of the Irish Roman Catholics, ib.; of the Irish clergy, 55.
- Dante's Vision, or Hell, Purgatory, and Paradise, translated by Carey, 556, et seq.; merits of the present version, 556; the Italians the models of the early English poets, ib.; inquiry relative to the period of the writing of the poem, 558, et seq.; remarks on the language of Dante, 560, et seq.; Dante the father of Italian poetry, 561; estimation of him by his successors, 562; his claim to originality, ib. et seq.; general prevalence of superstition in his time, ib.; account of the visionary Alberico, 563, 4, et seq.; his vision, ib. differences and similarity of the two poets, 564, 5; Matthew Paris's account of the vision of the Monk of Evesham, and of Alari, 566, 7; Dante's description of Lucifer, 568; chief interest of Dante's Poem, 569; meets Guido's father in hell, 569, 70; his description of morning and evening, 570; his attachment to his native city, 572; his death, ib.
- Danes, their character, 513.
- Darnley's island, natives of, 562, 3.
- David, Lacey's Life of, 484, et seq.
- Day-break, verses on, 87.
- Debtors in the Scotch prisons, their disgraceful situation, 240.
- Deism not one of the formidable enemies of Christianity, 145, 6.
- Denmark, King of, melancholy proof of his mental derangement, 512.
- Dictionnaire des verbes François, par M. Tarver, 572, 3.
- Distillation, illicit, a cause of the poverty of the Irish, 50.
- Doctrines, important, of the gospel, Thornton's sermons on, 376, et seq.
- Dog, sagacity of one at Rome, 580.
- Doncaster jail, hard case of a poor widow confined there, 239.
- Drivers, Swedish and Italian, contrasted, 518.
- Durham, house of correction at, 239.
- Duties, reciprocal, of parents and children, by Mrs. Taylor, 394, et seq.
- Early rising, letters on the importance, duty, and advantages of, 356, et seq.; motives addressed to the various members of a family, 357; address to the son, 358, 9.
- Echo of the study, 487, 8.
- Elizabeth, court of, Miss Lucy Aikin's memoirs of, 105, et seq.
- Elocution, Wright's philosophy of, 389, et seq.
- Emigration, Fearon's remarks on, 161, 2.
- Encyclopedists, French, decay of their fame, 204; their works read only for their licentiousness, 205.
- England delineated, 179, et seq.
- Enontekis, district of, in Swedish Lapmark, 526, 7.
- Erskine on two sepulchral urns found in Bushire in Persia, 437.
- Erskine's account of the cave temple of Elephanta, 437.
- Essay on sonnet writing, &c. 473; extract, 475; sonnet on myself, 476, 7.
- Essays, nautical, 482, 3.
- Eusebius's arrangement of the canonical and apocryphal books of Scripture, Horne's remarks on, 191.
- Evening, Dante's description of, 570.
- Evidences, the principal, of revealed religion, Roby's lectures on, 259.
- Eyam, desolation of the village of, by the plague, 585; admirable conduct of the clergyman and his wife, ib.
- Farm, Mr. Wynne's, at Hazlewood, near Sligo, 51.
- Farms, Irish, evils occasioned by their smallness, 47.
- Fauns and Satyrs, conjectures concerning the origin of the belief in by the ancients, 513.
- Fathers, on the use to be made of their writings, 459.
- Fearon's sketches of America, 153, et seq.; erroneous opinion of the state of things in America, 154; peculiarity of the Anglo-Americans, as a people, 155; slavery practised by the Americans, ib.; the blacks not permitted to attend public worship with the whites, ib.; whites of the most degraded stations refuse to eat with blacks, 156; no slaves in New England, ib.; hair-dresser refuses to dress a black, 157; moral cha-

I N D E X.

- racter of Virginia*, 158; probability of the permanency of slavery in the American states, ib.; hints to professional men and mechanics, in regard to emigration, 158, 9; case of an emigrant carpenter and his family, ib.; Cobbett's opinion of the Americans, 160; author's remarks on emigration, 161, 2; cruel injustice of the American government to General St. Clair, 164, 5; domestic habits and morals, 166; American vanity, ib.; prejudices against foreigners, 167; General Hamilton, ib.; general remarks on the people and their character, 168, 9.
- Female population of warm climates, facts respecting it, 424.
- Festival, annual, at Rome, for sprinkling horses and asses with holy water, 458.
- Flinders's voyage to Terra Australis, 359, et seq.; uninteresting character of the greater proportion of the coast, 360; natives of Darnley's island, 362, 3; daring adventure of Bass, 363; remarkable flight of sooty petrels, 364; natives of King George's Sound, 365; Kangaroo island, 366; author encounters Le Geographe, a French discovery ship, 367; base conduct of Captain Baudin, the French Institute, and Bonaparte, 367, et seq.; survey of the east coast, 369; decayed state of the vessel, 370; character of the natives of this coast, 370, 1; their language, 371; condemnation of the ship, ib.; author and crew embark in the Porpoise, for Europe, 372; Porpoise and Cato wrecked, ib.; inhumanity of Captain Palmer, ib.; his subsequent disastrous fate, ib.; relief of the crew, &c. ruffian conduct of Gen. de Caen, and Bonaparte, 374; author's long and base imprisonment at the Mauritius, ib.
- Forbes, Bishop, character of his writings, 446.
- Foreigners, strong prejudice of the Americans against them, 167.
- Forests of Sweden, their great extent*, 513.
- Forgery, punishment of death for, see Punishment, capital.
- France, and the coalition, 177, et seq.
- France, Miss Hurtle's history of, 481, et seq.
- France, present state of, as under popery, 585.
- Francklin's inquiry concerning the site of the ancient Palibothra, 423.
- Frederick on a substance called Gez, or manna, found in Persia, 437.
- Frederick's present and ancient state of Babylon compared, 432.
- French history, Bigland's letters on, 481.
- French kitchen*, 381.
- Freeston's advice to a young minister, 88, 9; design of the work, ib.
- Frissell's account of the morals of Nasir, a celebrated Persian system of ethics, 427, 8.
- Frogs, effect produced by the combined croaking of millions, on the road from Lubeck to Eutin, 512.
- Frost, a miner, his perilous situation from the falling in of the earth, 536.
- Galilee, upper and lower, description of, 26.
- German states, great probability of their separation from the Roman See, 602.
- Germany, Emperor of, singular prerogative of, 276.
- Giants' burial place, at the mountain of Halleberg, 514, 5.
- Golownin's recollections of Japan, 244, et seq.; character of the Japanese falsely drawn by the Portuguese priests, 245, 6; resemblance between the religious polity of the Japanese, and that of the Papists, ib.; privileges of Kin-Rey, the spiritual emperor, ib.; praying by machinery, 247; all sects but Christians tolerated in Japan, ib.; government of the empire, ib. et seq.; its population, 249; singular community of blind persons, ib.; infanticide practised, ib.
- Gottenburg herring fishery, 514.
- Gower, Lord, character of, 94, 5.
- Grabe, Dr. his strong attachment to the writings of the holy fathers, 445; his inclination to become a popish priest, ib.; declared for extreme unction, confession, absolution, &c. 445, 6.
- Grace, covenant of, Colquhoun's treatise on, 483, 4.
- Graham's treatise of Sufism, or Mahomedan mysticism, 430; import of the term Sufi, ib.; account of the mystic Shems Tebrees, 431.
- Gurney's notes on a visit to the prisons of Scotland, and North England, 235, et seq.; peculiarity of the Scottish jails, ib.; wretched situation of two lunatics in Perth old jail, 235, 6; state of Haddington county jail, 236, 7; lunatics in Inverness jail, 238; distressing case of a poor Scotch widow, confined in Doncaster jail, 239; house of correction at Durham, ib.; present state of the law in regard to vagrants, ib.; disgraceful situation of debtors, in the Scotch

INDEX.

- prisons, 240; peculiarities in the construction and management of the Scotch prisons, in regard to education, 240, 1; exceptions to the general character of their jails, ib.; state of the English and Scotch prisoners, in regard to education, 242, 3; proceedings of the Ladies' committees, &c. in various jails, 243; balance of disappointments and encouragements, 244.
- Haddington county jail, 236, 7.
- Hall, Bishop, on a general council, 608.
- Hammond, Dr. popish tendency of his writings, 446.
- Health and long life, Taylor's annals of, 87, 8.
- Hebrew of the Hebrews, its meaning considered, 28.
- Hebrews, epistle to the, remarks on its origin and author, 194.
- Heligoland, its present and former extent, 518.
- Hewlett's commentaries and annotations on the holy scriptures, 345; difficulties attendant on a critical study of the scriptures, 346; execution of the present work, 347, 8; subjects treated, 350; longevity of the antediluvians, 351, 2; on the language in which Matthew's gospel was written, 353; extract from Bishop Sherlock, 354; remarks on the parable of the steward, 355.
- Highlands, the, Elizabeth Spence's letters from, 479, et seq.
- Himalayah mountains, Colebrooke on the height of, 289, et seq.
- History, French, Bigland's letters on, 481.
- Holy Land, its climate, &c. described, 25.
- Honesty of the Swedes, proof of, 576.
- Horne's introduction to the critical study of the Holy Scriptures, 21, et seq.; high merits of the work, 21; its contents and embellishments, 22, et seq.; duty of a close attention to scripture reading, 24; climate of the Holy Land, 25, description of Galilee, Upper and Lower, 26; powers and functions of the Roman procurators, 27; their residences and force, ib. author's inaccurate exposition of the term 'Hebrew of the Hebrews,' 28; proselytes of the gate, not different from proselytes of righteousness, ib.; error in regard to the prohibition of circumcision, ib.; remarks on the true sense of words, as used in Scripture, 29; mystical or spiritual sense of passages of Scripture, 30, 1; remarks on the author's estimate of Hebrew lexicons, 31; use of the cognate languages, for illustrating the sacred writings, 32; importance of the Septuagint version, 33; on the scope of a book of Scripture, 34; its figurative language, 34, 5; scriptural metonymies, 35; prosopopœia, ib.; quotations from the Old Testament, classification of, &c. 182, 3; remarks on accommodation passages, 184, 5; on the spiritual interpretation of scripture, 185; doctrinal interpretation of scripture, 186, 7; proper mode of reading the doctrinal books of scripture, ib.; caution on the use of commentators, 187; remarkable accuracy of Mr. Strahan's late editions of the Bible, 188, 9; on the author of the book of Job, 189; analysis of the book of Nahum, 190; arrangements of the canonical and apocryphal books, 191; difficulty of making out the dates of the books of scripture, 192; on the original language of Matthew's gospel, 192, 3; author of first epistle to the Thessalonians, and of the Hebrews, 193.
- Household of King Alfred, &c. 276, et seq.
- Ieropaideia, 56, et seq.; 58, et seq.
- Indian church history, by Thos. Yeates, 250, et seq.
- Indian theory of Astronomy, 289.
- Infanticide practised in Japan, 249.
- Inns, Irish, 52, 3.
- Inquiry, Irish, a ready reply to, or, a confutation of Calvinism, 56, et seq.; remarks on satire as a supposed means of virtue, 57; objections to the author's manner, 58; subjects of the "Ieropaideia," ib.; letter to parents whose sons are designed for the ministry, 58, et seq.; instructions to the young gentlemen, 60, 1; cautions in the purchase of sermons, &c. 61, 2; exhibition of anti-Calvinistic preaching, 62, 3.
- Institute, French, their base treatment of Capt. Flinders, 367, et seq.
- Ireland, Curwen's state of, 43, et seq.
- Ireland, its great importance to Great Britain, 54.
- Irvine on the similitude between the Gipsy and Hindostanee languages, 429.
- Iskenderoon, gulf of, its plentiful supply of fish and turtle, 554.
- Italians the models of the early English poets, 556.
- Japan, Golownin's recollections of, 244, et seq.
- Job, book of, Mr. Horne's remarks concerning its author, 189.

INDEX.

- Johnson, Dr. touched by Queen Anne, for the evil, 281.
- Jones, Sir Wm. eulogy on, by Sir J. Mackintosh, 425.
- Kangaroo island, 366.
- Karamania, Beaufort's survey of the coast of, 546, et seq.
- Kilpis Lake, peculiarity of, 528.
- Kingsbury, the late Rev. W. Bullar's memoirs of, 537.
- King's, Dr. anecdotes of his own times, 89, et seq.; merits of the author, and of his work, 90; anecdotes of Sir R. Walpole, 91, et seq.; of Colonel Cecil, 91, 2; character of Walpole, 92; extract from Akenside, 94, (note), Lord Gower, his character, 94, 5; Duke of Newcastle, 95; disinterestedness of Butler, Bishop of Durham, 95, 6, and of Burnett, of Salisbury, 96; Pope's death hastened by dram drinking, ib.; repartee of Atterbury, ib.; character of the Pretender, 97; his education neglected, ib.; his avarice, 98; his fatal obstinacy, 99.
- Kin-Rey, the spiritual emperor of Japan, 246.
- Knowledge, general, importance of, 397, 8.
- Lacey's life of David, 484, et seq.; remarks on evangelical novels, 484; on the character of Bunyan's Pilgrim, and Holy War, ib.; (note.)
- Ladies' committees for visiting various jails, proceedings of, 243.
- Lambton's, Major, operations for fixing the geography of Hindustan, 282, et seq.
- Language, figurative, of Scripture, remarks on, 34.
- Languages, cognate, their use in illustrating scripture, 32.
- Lansdowne, Marquis of, his speech on the state of British Prisons; see Punishment.
- Laplanders, characteristic portrait of, 528.
- Lapps, settled, their cleanliness, 523; character of the nomade Lapps, 524.
- Lecture pour les jeunes gens, par S. B. Moens, 393.
- Letters from France, Switzerland, &c. by T. Raffles, 171, et seq.
- Letter of a Syrian bishop to a patriarch of Antioch, 258.
- Letters on the importance, &c. of early rising, 356, et seq.
- Letters, original, by Rebecca Warner, 573, et seq.
- Lexicons, Hebrew, notice of, 31.
- Liege, instance of priestly fanaticism exhibited there, 176, 7.
- Life, human, a poem, by Samuel Rogers, 218, et seq.
- Light, protracted, of the northern regions, its inconvenience to Southerners, 519.
- Literature, in France, cause of its decay, 206; its state under Bonaparte, 208.
- Liverpool, its situation, trade, &c. 181, 2.
- Louis the Sixteenth, his character, by M^{de} de Staël, 340, et seq.; his fortitude in danger, 341.
- Lover's evening walk with his mistress, 223.
- Lucifer, Dante's description of, 568.
- Lunatics in Scotland confined in the common jails, 235; their wretched state, ib. et seq.
- Mackintosh's, Sir James, plan of a comparative vocabulary of Indian languages, 439.
- , discourse at the opening of the Bombay literary society, 423, et seq.; facts in regard to the female population of warm climates, 424; his eulogy on Sir Wm. Jones, 425.
- Mackmurdo, on the inhabitants of Kattiwar, 437.
- Mackmurdo's account of the Parish-nath Gowricha, worshipped in the desert Parkur, 437.
- Mainot pirates, capture of, 552.
- Malayan archipelago, inquiry concerning the aborigines of, 285.
- Malayu nation, Sir Thos. Raffles's account of it, 285.
- Malcolm's translations of the opinions of the Shunni and Shia sects of Mahomedans, 429.
- Manasarovara lake, Moorcroft's journey to, 291, et seq.
- Manchester, its situation, trade, &c. 180, 1.
- Marriage, canon of the council of Trent, against it, 276.
- Marriages of Protestants and Catholics, regulations of the see of Constance concerning them opposed by the papal court, 467, et seq.
- Mary the first, her enmity to Elizabeth, 111; her death, 114; her conduct contrasted with that of Elizabeth, ib.
- Meath, Bishop of, his humane conduct to his poor labourers, 52.
- Merlet's Traducteur, 572, 3.
- Metaphors of scripture, 35, 6.
- Metonymies of scripture, 35.
- Midnight-sun, description of, 527.
- Miles's account of the hill fort of Chapaneer, in Guzerat, 433.
- Millford's moral observations in a tour through France, &c. 378, et seq.;

INDEX.

- author's route, 379; French dog taught to join in chorus, 380; sagacity of a dog at Rome, ib.; Major Cullender, origin of his title, ib.; ceremony attending the pope's blowing his nose, 381.
- Millennium, Bogue's discourses on, 127, et seq.
- Milne, Christian, of Aberdeen, interesting account of her, 479.
- Minister, Freeston's advice to a young one, 88, 9.
- Mirabeau, count de, his character and proceedings, 335, et seq.; his death, 338; remarks on his orations, 339.
- Misery of the common Irish, Curwen's opinion of the causes of, 47, et seq.
- Mission to Otaheite, narrative of, 169, et seq.; prosperous state of the mission, ib.; state of the schools in the Georgian islands, 170; devout observance of the Lord's day, ib.; meritorious conduct of Pomare, 170, 1; project for cultivating sugar, coffee, and cotton, in Otaheite, 171.
- Moens's lecture pour les jeunes gens, 393.
- Mompesson, Mr. minister of Eyam, his christian fortitude during the prevalence of the plague in this village, 535.
- Monk of Evesham, Prior's account of his vision, 566, 7.
- Montagu, Bishop, his inclination towards popery, 444, 5.
- Montagu's inquiries respecting the punishment of death for crimes without violence, 1, et seq.
- Moorcroft's journey to lake Manasarovara in Undes, a province of Little Thibet, 291, et seq.
- Morning, Dante's description of, 570.
- Music, national, of the Lapps, 524.
- Musings, midnight, 86.
- Myra, ruins of, 547.
- Nahum, book of, remarks on its author, scope, and style, 190.
- Nautical Essays, 482, 3.
- Necker, character of, 213, et seq.; see Staël Mad. de.
- Newton, the Rev. Mr. Kingsbury's remarks on his character, 536, 7.
- New York, Blunt's guide to, 274.
- Nicholl, on the temperature of the island of Bombay, 426.
- Niger and Congo rivers, further testimony of their identity, 83.
- Novels, evangelical, remarks on, 484.
- Nugæ Modernæ, 84, et seq.
- Observations, moral, on a tour through the south of France, &c. 378, et seq.
- Old age, poetic description of, 225, 6.
- Oswego, Capt. Paddock's narrative of the shipwreck of, 64, et seq.
- Otaheite, mission to, narrative of, 169, et seq.
- Paddock's narrative of the shipwreck of the Oswego, 64, et seq.; curious subjects of inquiry in regard to Africa, 64; dangerous current on the west coast of Africa, ib.; disasters occasioned by it, 65; excellent harbour on the African coast, ib.; author's testimony to the accuracy of Capt. Riley's narrative, 66; voyage of the Oswego, 67; its wreck on the Barbary coast, ib.; affliction of a Negro servant, 68; horrible cruelty of an Irish insurgent, 69; crew made captives by the Arabs, 70; hardships suffered by them, ib.; the whole party purchased by an Arab, to be taken to Mogadore, ib.; the Arab's opinion of the Christians, 71; description of a female Arab, 72; flight of locusts, 73; party arrive at the Moorish town of Santa Cruz, 74; Capt. P. reaches Mogadore, 74; the whole party redeemed, 75; curious incident, 76; (see p. 68.)
- Palibothra, ancient, inquiry concerning the site of, 423.
- Palmer, Capt. his cruel conduct to the crews of the Porpoise and Cato, 372; his terrible fate, ib.
- Park's Nugæ Modernæ, 84, et seq.; midnight musings, in verse, 86; day break, 87.
- Passages of scripture, remarks on their remote or mystical meaning, 30, 1.
- Peak scenery, 530, et seq.
- Pegge's Curialia Miscellanea, 275; et seq.; court salaries of France, &c. 276; singular privilege of the Emperor of Germany, ib.; household of King Alfred, 276, 7; court of William 1st, ib.; rapacity of Rufus, ib.; magnificence of Stephen's court, 278; Richard 1st, 278, 9; 'virtues of the Royal touch,' 280, et seq.; 200 persons touched by Queen Anne, 281; Dr. Johnson touched, ib.; ceremonies for the treating, ib.
- Persecution of the Protestants in the south of France, Mad. de Staël's remarks on, 497, 8.
- Perth old jail, state of the lunatics confined in it, 235, 6.
- Peter Bell, a lyrical ballad, 473; et seq.; origin of the work, ib.; extract, 473, 4.
- Petrels, sooty, remarkable flight of, 364.
- Phaselis, the ancient ruins of, 549.

INDEX.

- Picturesque tour through France, Switzerland, and the Netherlands, 378.
- Pinkerton on the evils occasioned by popery in Spain and Portugal, 385.
- Place de Louis-Quinze, 172, 3.
- Pomare, his meritorious conduct in his recommendation of Christianity to his people, 170, 1.
- Pompe polis, ruins of, 554.
- Popery, the religion of heathenism, extract from, on the Dii Tutelares &c. of the ancients, 310.
- Pope's bull against the Bible Society, 591.
- Pope, the ceremony attending his blowing his nose, 381.
- Population of Japan, 249.
- Praying by machinery in Japan, 247.
- Press, French, its deteriorated state since the revolution, 203.
- Pretender, his character, 97; his defective education, ib.; his avarice, 98; and fatal obstinacy, 99.
- Price's translation of a Sanscrit inscription on a stone found in Bundelchund, 290.
- Priests, Popish, in London, forbid the reading of the protestant version of the bible, 592.
- Priests, reprobate, remarks on their alleged clerical competency, 273.
- Prisons in Scotland and the North of England, Gurney's notes on a visit to, 235, et seq.
- Procurators, Roman, their powers and functions, 27; their places of residence in Judea, and military force, ib.
- Prophecy, Roberts's manual of, 384, et seq.
- Proselytes of the gate, not different from proselytes of righteousness, 28.
- Punishments, capital, pamphlets on, 1; et seq.; inefficiency of penal severity, to prevent crimes deemed capital, ib.; discrepancy between the law and the practice, in regard to persons suspected guilty of capital crimes, 2; Sir S. Romilly's statement of convictions and executions, ib.; note; necessity of reform in our prison discipline, 4; respect for the laws more powerful in its influence, than the fear of death, 5; absurdity exposed, of passing a sentence not designed to be executed, 6; true cause of the respect of the English to the laws, ib.; tendency of rigorous punishment to excite pity for the criminal, 7; danger of rendering the laws unpopular, by an undue severity, 8; misconception of the design of penal laws, ib.; the penalty of death has never eradicated a capital offence, 11; instance of an opposite effect in the increase of forgeries, ib.; change in the mode of proceeding against forgery, 11, 12; circumstances that would prevent the partial abolition of capital punishments from taking immediate effect, 12, 13; the certainty of punishment of more consequence than its severity, 14; the laws should not be in opposition to the general opinion of a country, 16; Sir W. Blackstone's opinion that the long list of capital offences increases rather than diminishes the number of offenders, 17; chronological list of statutable offences, 18; notice of eminent men who have advocated a mitigation of punishment, 19, 20.
- Queen of France, the late, favourable to the adopting of the English constitution, 321.
- Quotations from the old testament in the new, Horne's classification of, 182, 3.
- Raffi's letters from France, Switzerland, &c. 171, et seq.; Place de Louis-Quinze, 172, 3; instances of wretchedness, at Basle, 176; fanaticism at Liege, 176, 7.
- Raffles on the Malayan nation, &c. 284, et seq.; description of the country west of Bangalore, 283, 4.
- Reformation of the Catholic church in Germany, 462, et seq.; nomination of Baron Wessenberg to the see of Constance opposed by the papal court, 463; charges against Wessenberg, 464, et seq.; reply, 465; on the marriages of protestants and catholics, 467, et seq.; Wessenberg's defence against the papal court, 469; extract from the duke of Baden's official memorial, 470.
- Republicanism, remarks on its establishment in America, 323.
- Researches, Asiatic, 282, et seq.
- Revolution Française, considerations sur les principaux évènements de la, 202, et seq.; 316, et seq.; 488, et seq.
- Riley's narrative of the loss of an American brig, on the west coast of Africa, 64; disasters consequent on the loss of the vessel, 77; party captured by the Arabs, 78; march towards Mogadore, ib.; description of two Arab chiefs, 79, 80; detail of the events during their march, 80, et seq.; the party ransomed at Mogadore, 82; destruction of an Arab caravan, in an attempt

INDEX.

- to cross the desert, ib.; situation, &c. of Wassanah, a large city in the interior of Africa, 83; description of the king, ib.; probability of the Niger's being connected with the Congo river, ib.
- Rhodes's Peak scenery, 530, et seq.; remarks on graphic illustrations of descriptive tours, &c. 533; desolation of the village of Eyam by the plague, 535; Christian heroism of the clergyman and his wife, ib.; perilous situation of a miner, 536.
- Roberts's manual of prophecy, 384, et seq.; his application of certain passages from Daniel, 386; on the measuring of the temple of God, 387; on a passage from the Apocalypse, 388, 9.
- Robson's sermons, extracts from, 305; his examination before the committee of the house of commons, ib.
- Rogers's Human Life, a poem, 218, et seq.; character of the "Pleasures of Memory," ib.; defect of the present mode of writing, 219; character of Dr. Young's poetry, ib.; opening of the poem, 221; picture of childhood, 222, 3; the lover's evening walk with his mistress, 223; recollections of St. Anne's hill, 224, 5; old age, 225, 6.
- Roby's lectures on the principal evidences of revealed religion, 259; epitome of the course of lectures, 264, 5.
- Ross's translation of the fifth sermon of Sadi, 433; extract, 433, 4.
- Salt's account of the caves in Salsette, 428, 9.
- Salvation of man, Dr. Law's sermons on the scriptural doctrine of, 36; et seq.
- Sartine, M. de, minister of the French marine, anecdote of, 330.
- Satire, as a supposed means of virtue, considered, 57.
- Scandinavia, Dr. Clarke's travels in, 509, et seq.
- Schools in Otaheite, &c. 170.
- Scope of a book of scripture, true mode of obtaining it, 34.
- Scriptures, Holy, Horne's introduction to the critical knowledge of, 21, et seq.
- Sense, scriptural, of words, remarks on, 29.
- Septuagint version, its great use for a right conception of the sacred text, 33.
- Sermons by Daniel Wilson, 226, et seq.
- Sermons by the late Charles Wesley, 150, et seq.; extract from his sermon before the university, 151; subjects of the sermons and quotation, ib.
- Sermons, Small's, to young people, 259, et seq.
- Sherlock, Bishop, on natural religion, 354.
- Shipwreck of an American brig, Riley's account of, 64.
- Sieyes, Abbé, his character, 332, et seq.; composes a new constitution by order of Bonaparte, 333, 4.
- Sinners, the enticement of, Thomson's two discourses to warn the young against, 259, et seq.
- Slavery in the American states, 155.
- Small's sermons to young people, 259, et seq.; subjects treated of, 262; on spiritual peace, 262, 3.
- Sonnet writing, essay on, 473; extract, 475, et seq.
- Spence's, Elizabeth, letters from the Highlands, 479; interesting account of Christian Milne, ib.; popularity of Dr. Chalmers, at Glasgow, 480.
- Staël, Mad. la Baronne de, sur les principaux événemens de la révolution Française, 201, et seq.; the present work more suited to the English than the French public, 202; deteriorated state of the French press since the revolution, 203; unabated vigour of the English press, from the time of the civil wars, ib.; French Encyclopedists, decay of thier fame, 204; their works read only for their licentiousness, 208; cause of the decay of literature in France, 206; state of literature under Bonaparte, 208; on the influence of the infidel writers, 209; Voltaire, remarks on his mental baseness, 210; impartiality of the present author, 210, 11; her qualifications, ib.; the leading objects of the present work, 212; character of M. Necker, 213, et seq.; his great susceptibility to public opinion, 216, 17; his later conduct opposed by the popular party, 218; accused of empiricism, 317, et seq.; constantly opposed the financial schemes of the National Assembly, 319; depressed state of his mind on his return to the ministry, 320; labours to establish the English constitution in France, 321; the Queen in favour of this measure, ib.; utter futility of the scheme exposed, 322; remarks on the establishment of republicanism in America, 323; grand error of the French legislators, 324, et seq.; M. Necker retires to Coppet, 327; the French enter Swisserland, 327.

INDEX.

- 8; Mad. de Staël's concluding remarks on her father's political character, 328; administration of M. de Maurepas, 329; he proposes to Louis XVI. to nominate Necker to the finances, ib.; geographical knowledge of M. de Sartine, minister of the marine, 330; character of M. de Calonne, 330, 1; Abbé Sieyès, 332; composes a new constitution by order of Bonaparte, 333, 4; Count de Mirabeau, 334, et seq.; his death, 337; remarks on his orations, &c. 339; character of Louis the Sixteenth, 340; of Marie Antoinette, 341; king and royal family compelled to quit Versailles, 341, et seq.; his calmness under the most appalling circumstances ib., cruel treatment of the king on his trial, 344; character of Bonaparte, 491, et seq.; hypocrisy and immorality the leading features of his system, 493, et seq.; author's opinion of the first measures of Louis XVIII., 496; and of the persecutions of the protestants in the South of France, 497, 8; assertion of the Ultra-royalists, that the French were not made to be free, exposed, 498, 9; difference between the English and the French, as capacitated for the enjoyment of liberty, 500; author's representation of English manners, 500, 1; whether England will ever lose her political liberty, 501, 2.
- Staunton's, Sir George, translations of two Chinese edicts, relating to the condemnation of certain persons convicted of christianity, and of certain magistrates, 426, 7.
- Strachan's early history of Algebra, 286.
- Study, the, echo of, 487, 8.
- Switzerland, invasion of, by the French, 327, 8.
- Takhtalu, Mount, its height, 548.
- Tarver's Dictionnaire des verbes François, 572, 3.
- Taurus, Mountains of, their elevation, 548.
- Taylor's annals of health and long life, 87, et seq.
- Taylor's, Mrs. correspondence between a mother, and her daughter at school, 394.
- Taylor's, Mrs. reciprocal duties of parents and children, 394, et seq.; fatal mistake of parents who foster a party spirit in their children, 395; nature of bigotry, ib.; importance of young persons acquiring a general knowledge, 397, 8.
- Terra Australis, Flinders's voyage to, 359, et seq.
- Theatrical critique, 473, 477, 8.
- Thomson's two discourses to the young, against the enticements of sinners, 259, et seq.
- Thornton's sermons on the most important duties of the gospel, 376, et seq.; subjects of the various discourses, 377; on the intercession of Christ, 377, 8.
- Thurtle's (Miss) history of France, 481, et seq.
- Tithe-proctors, in Ireland, their tyranny, 48, 9.
- Tithes, one cause of the poverty of the Irish, 48.
- 'Touch, the Royal,' virtue of, 280, et seq.; ceremonies used for healing, 281.
- Tour, picturesque, through France, Switzerland, &c. in 1816, 378, et seq.; author's route, 382; a French kitchen, 383; scenery of Vaucluse, 383.
- Traducteur, by M. Merlet, 572, 3.
- Travels in Scandinavia, by Dr. Clarke, 509, et seq.
- Trent, decree of the council of, on the necessity of invoking saints, 308, 9.
- Trollhætta, falls of, 514; freak of the late king of Sweden at these falls, ib.
- Vagrants, present state of the law in regard to, 239.
- Vaucluse, description of its scenery, 383.
- Vendéens, les jeunes, par feu Mad. Bernard, 393.
- Virginians, their character, 158.
- Vision of Dante, 556, et seq.
- Voltaire, base conduct of, in regard to the protestants, 209, 10.
- Walpole, Sir Rob. anecdotes of, 91, et seq.
- Warner's epistolary curiosities and original letters, 573, et seq.; letters of Dr. Cheyne to Richardson, 576, 7; historical account of Ameen, the Armenian prince, 578; his letter to the Earl of Northumberland, on his unhappy situation, 579, 80.
- Warren's, Captain, account of observations taken near Fort St. George, for determining the obliquity of the ecliptic, 283.
- Wassanah; a large city of central Africa, its situation, &c. 83; description of the king, ib.
- Wener, Lake, 514.
- Wesley's, Charles, sermons, 150, et seq.
- Wessenberg, Baron, proceedings of the papal court against him, to prevent his succeeding to the see of Constance, 462, et seq.
- Wheat, stooking of, as practised in Ireland, 52, 3.
- William Rufus, his rapacity, 277.

INDEX.

Wilson's, Daniel, sermons, 226, et seq.; titles of the several discourses, 227; on preaching the doctrine of the Cross, 228; its tendency to counteract human pride, 228, 9; excites the contempt of nominal Christians, 229; on having the Son, 230, 1; on the influence of the world, 231, et seq.; on the supply of the spirit of Christ, 234, 5.

Wix on the expediency of a council of the churches of England and Rome being held, to accommodate religious differences, &c. 301, et seq.; various official stations of the author, 301; church of England declared by Mr. Wix to acknowledge the authority of the church of Rome, 303; extracts from the articles, ib.; the author's proposed union not to extend to schismatics, 304; extracts from Robson's sermons, 305; his examination before the parliament house, ib.; church of England essentially indebted to tradition, 306; author's remarks on popish infallibility, 307; asserts that the church of Rome should not make concessions, ib.; his fallacious mode of reasoning, 307, 8; denies that the council of Trent insists on the necessity of invoking the saints, ib.; decree of the council on this subject; ib. et seq.; extract from "Popery the religion of heathenism," showing that prayers to saints &c. are relics of heathen idolatry, 310, et seq.; the church of England said not to deny the authority of the pope, 313; rejected state of all dissenters, from this proposed union, 314; author's denunciation of the bible society, 315; his eulogy on charity, 441, et seq.; remarks on his forty pages of extracts and authorities, 442, et seq.; character of Collier, 444; Thorndike, ib.; bishop Montagu, ib.; bishop Cosin, 445; Dr. Grabe, ib.; Dr. Bramhall, 446; Dr. Hammond, ib.; bishop Forbes, ib.; Dr. Sherlock, ib.; Fleuri, 447; Drs. Hickes, Cave, and Waterland, ib.; Dr. Bingham, 448; Mr. Campbell, ib.; Dr. Brett, ib.; Dr. Dodwell, ib.; author's excellent rule for attaining uniformity of faith, 450; his mode of treating transubstantiation, 452; extract from "Popery the religion of heathenism," ib.; on prayers to angels and departed saints, 455, et seq.; on bowing before a crucifix, habitual signing with the cross, and other practices generally deemed superstitious, 456, et seq.; festival held annually at Rome, for sprinkling horses and asses with holy water, 458; author's remarks on a reference to early opinions and practices, 458, 9; reveries of some of the early fathers, viz. Augustine, Bede, Basil, Origen, Cyril, 460, et seq.; author denies the church to be the antichrist of scripture, 581; and that the Latin service is intended to keep the people in ignorance, 582; thinks the Romish service grand and captivating, 583; again denounces the association of churchmen and dissenters, 584; Pinkerton on the evil effects of popery in Spain and Portugal, 585; present state of France under popery, 586; exclusion system of Mr. Wix, and that of the church of Rome, compared, 589, 90; bull of the present pope against the bible societies, 591; English popish priests forbid the reading of the protestant version of the bible, 592, et seq.; members of the bible society do not associate to make converts of one another, 597; union of the two churches offers a grand specific against the evil of evangelical christianity, 599; inquiries for the consideration of certain ministers of the establishment, ib. et seq.; probability of a separation of some German states from the Roman see, 602; inquiry as to the author's opinion concerning the catholic claims, 604; the Church of England three fourths popish, 605; amiable temper of the present pope questioned, 606; note; bishop Hall on a general council, 608. Wright's philosophy of Elocution, 389, et seq.

Wrede's account of the festival of Mamangom, 425.

Wynne's, Mr. farm near Sligo, 51.

Yanar, or volcanic flame, description of its appearance, 548.

Yeates's Indian church history, 250, et seq.; the "Acts of the Apostles," exhibits examples for all christian churches, ib.; author's fanciful parallel between the christian church and the Jewish polity, 252; his absurdities exposed, 253; instances of his careless writing, 254; his extracts from the Syrian records not worthy of credit, 255; relations of the Syrian and Chaldean writers, 255, 6; author's account of the state of the Malabar christians in the fifteenth century, 257; letter of a Syrian bishop to a patriarch of Antioch, 258.

Young's, Dr. poetry, character of, 219.

r
s e n
n
of n
e
;
e h o-
2, y
of ro
ic
sine
ry an t; on
;
hs
he e;
8.
9, a-

its 60, s," ian lled
the ies
reom
reand or's bar
67;
arch
19.